MR. C MULLER, Opticiau—Dear Sir. The glasses you have prepared for me exceed in distinctness and brilliancy of vision any I have over used. The principle of a focus accommodated to every motion of the eye, is invaluable, as it prevents fatheue to the organ, and does not impair vision. The beautiful transparency of the glass, with its great hardness, gives a durability which is invaluable to those having a constant demand for them.

These improvements are recommondations for their use highly meeting public patronage.

From Hon. W. H. Humparrys,

Court, Tennessee.

I have tried Mr. Muster's speciacies. I consider them altogether superior to the speciacies commonly used.
